

TALK KPU to host Annual General Meeting this Monday with presentation from BC Seniors Advocate Isobel Mackenzie

Isobel Mackenzie, image from the Office of the Senior Advocate of BC Website

TALK KPU will be hosting its Annual General Meeting this Monday, October 24th, from 10am to noon, at the Richmond KPU campus in the Melville Centre for Dialogue, Room 2550B, and over Zoom. All members are welcome to attend the meeting for free and enjoy complimentary refreshments. Registration can be completed online for both the in-person version and the Zoom version on the Amilia website where TALK course registration is found.

Those attending the in-person version is asked to note that all-day parking at the campus can be purchased once there for $5.

The meeting will also be preceded by a presentation by BC's Senior's Advocate Isobel Mackenzie, who will speak and lead a discussion about issues facing seniors in BC today. Isobel's expertise comes from over two decades of advocacy work, including heading a new and successful method of dementia care and continuously speaking out in favour of seniors throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. In 2014, Isobel was appointed as the first Senior's Advocate in all of Canada and her department has supported seniors for the last eight years through affordability crises and dangerous heat waves.

For more information, please email TALK@kpu.ca or call 604.599.3077.